Peter Callister August 1

"On May 14, 2022, Trevor Bellacomo was stabbed to death in Salt Lake City, shocking the local punk rock community. The man who killed Trevor was found guilty.

But Ally, Trevor's wife, is a prison abolitionist. Yet she also believes that Trevor's killer is a real threat to her community. Meanwhile, the sentencing hearing approaches—where Ally will face the man who murdered her husband."

Prior to DOI: Subject's post reflecting on her past. Flashback #2 I spent a lot of years deeply regretting who I was before I became spiritual, vegan, openly queer, an activist, polyamorous, and living as ethically as I can. I felt guilt and shame looking back at my younger self and wished I could erase many of the memories. I rebelled against my narcissist parent and religion and ran off to sex, drugs, and rock and roll. I hurt myself and others along the way which I still don't know if I can ever forgive myself for. But I'm done with regret. Baby Ally was finding herself and it was in those shadows she learned who she was. And she never stopped growing and challenging herself since. I always had a weird not-so-healthy relationship with self-love. I'm so grateful to my partners and friends reminding me every day that I am worthy of love. No matter what it took to get here. ☐

Ally Kiyomi Bellacomo is at Bryce Canyon National Park. October 13, 2021 · Bryce Canyon City, UT ·

Nearly had a panic attack last night like the ones I used to have when I could not pull myself out of the darkness. I think a ton of different stressors from this human experience of late just welcomed in the anxiety as if calling on an old friend. I'm not always as strong as I want to believe I am when it comes to being an activist, living in late-stage capitalism, handling multiple relationships in a very alternative way of loving, not medicating, and so many around me having a rough time too. Driving into Utah today, I could feel the anxiety melting away. This one view of Bryce Canyon where you couldn't see a single sign of civilization was the first time in a long time I felt grounded again. Actually grateful to be alive again. I really hope I can keep this feeling around for longer this time.

Prior to DOI: Subject mentions having three broken ribs. My first serious injury. The worst physical pain I've ever felt. The most handicapped this vessel has ever been. I fell backwards off a ladder into a hard corner of a table and broke three rib bones. Barely a bruise, no broken skin... I thought my inability to move without my eyes tearing up was just weakness and the pain will go away if I tough it out. Three days of excruciating pain I tried to laugh off later, I'm SO glad I took a friend's advice to seek out a chiropractor and the human I ended up going to see turned out to be an actual angel and healer with an X-RAY machine on site. They let me know there is not much we can do with broken ribs. Good and bad news because I'm going to be in pain and incapable of doing much moving at all for anywhere from 4 to 8 weeks.. but I'm relieved of the stress of operations and evil corporate medical bills. I left the angel chiropractor's office with the x-rays, at-home helpful devices, complete awareness, and a load of advice and references for only $40 ☐☐ A total act of generosity off the books. He said, "Welcome to Salt Lake City". ☐ And I got to come home to a loving caretaking partner that constantly checks in on me ☐. I have the ability to rest and watch in wonder as these cells work to heal my bones. It's just funny/crazy to me how happy I can feel while in so much aggravating pain. Loving your body is great but you ever try realizing how much more than your body you are? It's a spiritual thing ☐ . . #harekrishna #haribol #radheradhe #fuckingmagic #eternal #divinelove #dontpostponejoy #hariom @srilaprabhupada #vrindavan

My first serious injury. The worst physical pain I've ever felt. The most handicapped this vessel has ever been. I fell backwards off a ladder into a hard corner of a table and broke three rib bones. Barely a bruise, no broken skin... I thought my inability to move without my eyes tearing up was just weakness and the pain will go away if I tough it out.

Prior to DOI: Subject's post about Thanksgiving. Last year, while on Ohlone land, I swore to never celebrate colonization and genocide again. Prior to DOI: Subjects protest at Jordan World Circus. This was from the last of 5 protests we did against @jordanworldcircus who still (AB)use elephants, tigers, horses, and more animals who are forced into slavery spending most of their waking lives in tiny cages and transport trucks when not on stage being humiliated, surrounded by laughing humans who are so disconnected, lack empathy to sentience, or are down right speciesists/supremacists. This was funny and ironic to me that the event organizers set up a CAGE for our free speech zone. They put us activists who chant "Until every cage is empty" in a cage ☐☐ BTW it was 14 DEGREES but we stood out there. Fuck cages for everyone. We'll play nice because we're nonviolent but please check yourselves... anyone who supports putting a life behind bars. I've spent 5 nights (separate occasions) in jail. Which is nothing compared to the time some of my best friends and most vigilant honorable heroes have done and there's no disagreement. Putting anyone in a cage is evil. It is not productive. It is designed to fail. It causes unimaginable lifelong trauma and most often, further violence or death by a multiplude of reasons. Abolish slavery. Fight for animal rights. . #freethemall #untileverycageisempty #abolishprisons #abolishslavery #endanimalexploitation

I remember when I first met you, you walked right up to me at an AV demonstration and asked how you could help. It takes guts to show up and protest cruelty to animals, and Trevor had guts. He cared deeply for the animals and was a powerhouse activist, risking his body and freedom for them many times. Anyone who knew him knows how he was relentless in protesting, strategizing, and fighting for the voiceless. He loved his wife Ally Kiyomi Goddard and I'd never seen him happier than when they met. He was gentle and kind, but loud as fuck for the animals. I'm going to keep up the good fight in your honor. Rest in power, Trevor. Until we meet again. 💔

After DOI: A Facebook Fundraiser on behalf of Subject for Decedent's passing. Death is a reality many of us find nearly impossible to deal with. Murder is another thing entirely. This fundraiser is for a best friend, Ally Kiyomi, recently-widowed wife of now-deceased activist and designer Trevor Bellacomo (swipe right). Trevor was stabbed in the neck last Saturday night, an intentional killing, and a horrific way for anyone to die, let alone a friend. Ally and Trevor were just married, had decided to reverse his vasectomy so they could have children (men TAKE NOTE. Just get a fucking vasectomy. Be a man, like Trevor, reverse it if you feel the need). They were madly in love, and had planned a life together. And then... this. I cannot IMAGINE the pain Ally must be feeling. In October, I lost my recent ex, Ronaldo, and that was hard enough. To lose someone you just married—and to SENSELESS murder—... my heart breaks. So this is a fundraiser for Ally, to keep her afloat through this difficult—unimaginable—time; she was working for his clothing company, which is now no-more. Naturally, in this country, if you have unconventional work, or, heaven forbid, are out of work, you probably don't have health insurance or the kind of money needed for grief therapy. I'd like for this fundraiser to be used by Ally as she needs and sees fit in these difficult times, but so people are aware, some potential recipients are: out-of-pocket therapy, RENT, travel costs if she needs a break from Utah, funeral costs, donating to an org Trevor loved—hell, a nice fucking bottle of wine in a dingy karaoke bar. I want Ally to know she is loved and supported right now, as Trevor would have wanted. Please only donate what's within your capacity, $1, $10, $100 (no one should have to go into debt to bury their loved one). Trevor fought adamantly, passionately for animals. He deserves to be remembered as the revolutionary he was. May he rest in peace, among sleeping warriors. May the animal rights community (and folks outside as well) rise up in these trying times to support one of our own. We love you, Ally. 💎 Note: MAJOR thanks to amazing friend and activist Mandy Vara for suggesting this and getting this conversation started. $12,076 raised of the $12,000 goal.

About

Death is a reality many of us find nearly impossible to deal with. Murder is another thing entirely.

This fundraiser is for a best friend, Ally Kiyomi, recently-widowed wife of now-deceased activist and designer Trevor Bellacomo (swipe right). Trevor was stabbed in the neck last Saturday night, an intentional killing, and a horrific way for anyone to die, let alone a friend. Ally and Trevor were just married, had decided to reverse his vasectomy so they could have children (men TAKE NOTE. Just get a fucking vasectomy. In October, I lost my recent ex, Ronaldo, and that was hard enough. To lose someone you just married—and to SENSELESS murder—... my heart breaks.

So this is a fundraiser for Ally, to keep her afloat through this difficult—unimaginable—time; she was working for his clothing company, which is now no-more. Naturally, in this country, if you have unconventional work, or, heaven forbid, are out of work, you probably don't have health insurance or the kind of money needed for grief therapy. I'd like for this fundraiser to be used by Ally as she needs and sees fit in these difficult times, but so people are aware, some potential recipients are: out-of-pocket therapy, RENT, travel costs if she needs a break from Utah, funeral costs, donating to an org Trevor loved—hell, a nice fucking bottle of wine in a dingy karaoke bar. Hi all! I just wanted to touch base as we reached our goal (over and over and over again!). We were genuinely blown away. I'm posting this picture just to remind you all of what and who you donated to: honoring Trevor's life and memory, and supporting Ally through this unbelievably tragic ordeal.

Remember that in darkness, there is light, in pain, there is healing, and in community, there can be love. Thank you to each person who donated, liked, shared, or contributed in whatever way made sense for them. Love to you all ❤️

After DOI: A friend's post addressing negativity surrounding Decedent's death.

The screenshot shows a Facebook post titled "Ally Kiyomi Bellacomo's Post". The post is from Ally Kiyomi Bellacomo, dated May 19, 2022. The text of the post reads: "Thank you for defending his and our humanity Billytoni. You're a real one in a sea of madness." Below this is a comment from Anthony Baumgartner, dated May 17, 2022. The comment is a long, detailed statement regarding the murder of Trevor Bellacomo, expressing his personal knowledge of the victim and his criticism of the "punk scene" and social media culture. At the bottom of the screenshot, there is a comment input field with the text "Write a comment..." and several icons for adding content to the comment.

Ally Kiyomi Bellacomo's Post

the love of his family and friends, I cannot believe there is a shred of concern for any alleged victim. Somewhere along the lines you devalued his humanity so much you forsook your own. Insomuch you even lack empathy for his grieving family, and his heartbroken wife. They are victims too. They are also people, real people, with real feelings. This "punk scene" is full of the biggest hypocrites I have ever seen. Not just in SLC either. You can't claim to value life and in the same breath devalue it. Do you think that is moral? And if you try claim to not have any morals, than why jump on these rumors then? Do you think this event makes any of you tougher now as a collective? Do you think this makes you more "punk"? You know you are all under the radar of the law now too. Is that what you wanted? Cause it's coming. Punks have mostly been a nuisance to law enforcement in the past, but now they are always going to take a serious look at you. The city shutdown our venues from my youth for under age drinking and noise years and years ago. You have no idea of the ramifications that could come of this. Especially because it happened at an all ages event. What do you think they are going to do now that you've produced a murderer? And believe me, you did. This is a culmination of years of threats and harassment from complete strangers and loose acquaintances. Ones who worked themselves in to a mob mentality frenzy. All of it predominantly over social media. You became the cyber-bullies you think you decry by spreading hearsay as fact with reckless abandon, and bullying relentlessly. Calling it social justice too as though it is not a perversion of both words. Emboldening somebody to finally act to an extremist degree. This killer is no hero. He's an ordinary guy who succumbed to a fevered, illogical hatred that culminated in murder. Now his life is ruined too. Never mind the effects to his family. You think the law won't crack down on the entire subculture for fear of more vigilantism/extremism? Especially given the atmosphere of extremes cancel culture keeps growing into. This killer and all supporting this act as justified will undoubtedly validate any measure the law will inevitably take to mitigate these kinds of acts. You will have brought that stigma on yourselves. Directly to those delighting in this tragedy, and disrespecting the dishonorably slain, you're blinded fools. Fools who are drunk on hate and the blood of my friend. I hope it makes you sick.

After DOI: Subject post about her dream of being with Decedent. I just had a dream that I got to go back in time. Your brother told me about when the lies about you first started being thrown around about a decade ago and how the pain in your voice told him you were telling the truth. In my dream, I found you then in all your pain and loneliness and I approached you. "Hi, I'm Ally. Can I give you a hug?" From then on we got to rewrite history and all the weight you bore from the hate for 10 years never got to touch you. I got to make you as happy as you were in real time in the last year of your life our entire life. We grew old together. We had love and laughter every day. We watched grass roots activism kick ass and the world change for the better. We raised a couple warriors who were shown unconditional love, encouragement, non-violence, power. We were no different in our old age than we were a month ago... smoothies, music, snuggles, and organizing protests. We had a beautiful tribe of loyal friends who all took care of each other. It was magical baby.... I'm gonna pray for this life we got robbed of every single day for the next cycle. I will find you just like I did back in time in my dream. Love you Trevor 🍀🍀

After DOI: Subject's post about having nightmares and questioning her future decisions. I haven't been able to move in 3 days. Every single muscle in my body aches. The dreams have turned into violent nightmares. The killer's face won't stop showing up. The stabbing won't stop. The screams won't stop. I wake up sweating and clutching my heart because it literally feels broken into 1000 pieces inside my ribs. I failed to protect my baby ☹️ I don't know where to go from here. I can't even think about activism. My voice is lost. And knowing how much Trev loved me, I'm sure he's forgiving me for that right now. Running away to Vrindivan and hiding in an ashram is the only option that feels good to me. But something really curious about Trevor... despite all the hate, jealousy, slander, dehumanizing... he stood his ground. If drama like that suddenly surrounded me I'd be packing up for a new chapter right away. He really loved this city that gave him so much but in the end took everything. I wish I could ask him how he feels now. Should I stay and try to keep the business you loved so much running? Our friends all seem to be on the same page about how that would be the ultimate F U to the haters. But right now... I can't move my body.

After DOI: Subject's post about her 1 year anniversary with Decedent. 6/25/2021 Today would have been our one year anniversary as an official couple. We had already been sprung on each other for a while but Trevor being as cute and sentimental as he was wanted to do something special to seal the deal. We were on the road in his bus and he took us to a really pretty lake on a perfect sunny day, played our song "Who Would've Thought" by Rancid, then asked me with a new kind of seriousness, "Ally, will you be my official partner?" Easiest yes of my life ☐ Fourth picture is from that day. Third pic are the matching dog tags I made us for his birthday. It's been tough. It took me 5 hours after waking up to get up and pull myself together. I set out to run errands with his death certificate and other paperwork in hand. But first I checked my mailbox. It's been an absolute joy getting to know one of Trev's oldest friends whose been in prison for some time. They talked every Sunday and I enjoyed overhearing and witnessing such a sweet friendship. Now I'm the one Mike calls and they're such fun conversations always cut off by the 30 minute time limit. Getting this package on our anniversary day is so significant to me right now. I believe Trevor is working really hard through his angels to keep sending me love. Little miracles every day. What a romantic warrior.

After DOI: Subject's post about her involvement with the Sea Shepherd Conservation Society.

The screenshot shows a Facebook post from Ally Kiyomi Bellacomo, dated September 18, 2022. The post is titled "The Strange Devolution of Sea Shepherd." and contains the following text:

The Strange Devolution of Sea Shepherd.

In 1977 I created an organization that I named the Sea Shepherd Conservation Society. I also created the logos including the iconic Jolly Roger.

I worked for years without pay, organizing ships and crews and launching controversial campaigns. I was beaten, arrested and accused of many things in an attempt to demonize me.

The organization became an international movement. We had our own TV show: Whale Wars. We made documentaries and we wrote books.

Over a period of 50 years, I commanded numerous ships on hundreds of campaigns, from the high arctic to the Southern Ocean, in the waters of the Pacific, the Atlantic and the Indian Ocean, in the Baltic, the Mediterranean, from the Galapagos to Pitcairn, From the Labrador Coast to the Gulf of St. Lawrence, through the Panama Canal, the Suez Canal and the Kiel Canal. Along the Aleutians to the shores of Siberia. So many ports of call and so many confrontations with whalers, sealers, poachers, turtle killers, dolphin murderers and the evil that is destroying life in the sea.

With me, over the years there were thousands of passionate crew members who worked hard long hours in remote hostile waters.

We were Sea Shepherd. We were confrontational and controversial, and we got things done. We saved lives in the deep and we delivered a strong and persistent message to the world that the Ocean is dying and when the Ocean dies, we all die, our children die, everything we love and treasure will be gone.

There is nothing more important than the conservation, defense and protection of marine biodiversity – absolutely nothing because the Ocean is the foundation of life.

For 50 years I have campaigned for life, for the Ocean and the future.

And yet today I have been threatened with trademark violations if I wear a shirt with the name or logos of Sea Shepherd. Anyone can buy a Sea Shepherd shirt and they can wear it EXCEPT for myself.

My official face book page was shut down for 30 days because I was accused of trademark violations. The violation was a banner photo of myself wearing a Sea Shepherd shirt in front of a Sea Shepherd flag.

I was told that my reputation was an embarrassment to those who now run Sea Shepherd USA. I was too outspoken, too controversial, too confrontational for the current Board of Directors and thus my picture, my history and my bio have been removed from the website of the organization that I founded.

The screenshot also shows the Facebook interface, including the browser address bar, navigation icons, and a comment input field at the bottom.

Ally Kiyomi Bellacomo's Post

founded.

Too many complaints from fishing industries and governments that we upset.

As a result, the founder of Sea Shepherd and the leader of decades of campaigns is not allowed to use the Sea Shepherd name or the logos of the movement I created.

This aggressive attempt to silence me will not work. I have created the Captain Paul Watson Foundation. They at least do not own my name.

And with the Foundation I intend to carry on in the spirit of aggressive non-violence to do all that we can to defend, protect and conserve life in the sea.

They can take the name and logos I created, they can take the flag and they can continue to own and control something they had no part in creating.

But the one thing they can never take is the passion, the courage, the persistence, and the imagination that can recreate what once was the greatest marine conservation movement on the planet and will continue to be once again.

Thank you to Sea Shepherd France, the United Kingdom, Brazil, New Zealand, Austria and Tahiti for standing by me and for recognizing the importance to be what we need to be and that is to be both confrontational and very controversial as we continue to make waves.

After DOI: Subject's post about Decedent 6 months after his passing. It's been 6 months since he left his body. Six months without the warmth of his touch, his smile, his voice. I can barely tell physical presence apart from spiritual presence anymore. I'll be here or I'll be there. I feel more awake in my dreams when my body is asleep. What do I do with that? Yesterday, I was deep in a trauma-informed psychedelic therapy session when my guide whose also a medium told me that Trevor really needed her to know something. She had told me before that its sometimes invasive/annoying/not the right time when spirits try and talk to her and that she can usually ignore them but apparently Trevor reeeally needed her to know this. Apparently he kept saying, "That's my wife! That's my wife! You have to take care of her!..." We both burst out laughing because I knew and she knew I knew that it was definitely him. I actually apologized to her knowing how pushy he can be ☹️ and then I said out loud, "Why'd you have to leave me so much shit Trevor?!" (My biggest stressor right now is what to do with every sentimental thing he left behind so that I can feel free to move on and live the way I used to before he came into my life and convinced me to settle down). Then I silently asked if any of the piles and piles of memorabilia and punk shit still meant anything now and I sensed his bashful attitude telling me no, that stuff doesn't matter... Morality reminder for us all - stuff is stuff and you can't take any of it with you past your grave. Thanks Trevor ☹️ Don't make fun of me while this body gets old. See you in my dreams ☹️ ☹️

After DOI: Subject's video collage featuring herself, Decendent, family, and friends. This year's season really made a fighter out of me. It's crazy how it can be the happiest time of some years, and the saddest of others. TBH...I'm so relieved Christmas is over and I'm still here. Glad youre all still here too♥ Random things: 1. Inspired by the show Stranger Things, I made an alphabet wall thinking just maybe, I could get messages from the other side. Plus my cat. Russell is my number 1☐ 2. My in-laws have made me feel so included and I'm so grateful for them. Makes me feel a whole lot closer to my deceased husband ☐ 3. More amazing gifts from within prison walls. What a legend. I can't wait to pamper Mike when he gets out next year ☐ 4. I fell in love with @nico.stubler at the beginning of quarantine when neither of us had any idea how hard both our worlds were about to be rocked. Together, I feel like we can take on the apocalypse. Thanks SO MUCH for being on my team. Come hell or high water... ☐☐ 5. My ride or die Tom Tanner wearing a mask of mine and my sister's faces ☐ This wonderful human has been making me laugh cry for 7 years and literally has never failed to pick up the phone for me ☐ 6. I just love how my mom communicates with emojis that look EXACTLY like her lol. I can feel her emotions all the way from Japan ☐ 7. My diver love Ruben has never stopped showing up for me since we part ways in Thailand. Pirates never die! ☐☠☐ 8. New girlfriend whose taught me a lot and I cant wait to visit in Korea!☐ 7. It gets quiet for activism in winter here cause it's damn cold but we dropped some banners. My roomie @vegetable_shredder is an awesome lil metal head vegan activist and I'm really grateful for his company and badass organizing ☐ Also, guess who made this 30 foot long watchdominion.com banner. ☐ we miss you @vegantrevor77 ☐ 8. Found the original art that became Trev's business card and its so him I love it. 9. Animal liberation conference in San Francisco 2019 10. Turkey save we went to together last year. 11. Married on Earth Day @spanishforkkrishnatemple 12. Nico shared this. I'm learning to love my rage ☐ Hope everyone can find comfort when they need it. Let's tear up 2023 ☐ #newyear #newshittoburn ☐

Nothing beats hanging out in nature with people you love. 🌲❤️
Tonight we're staying at our cousins in OC, then Megan and Billy are flying to Japan tomorrow.
Ally and I are sticking around LA till the 12th.
Im thinking of renting a car for a week.
Let me know if you wanna meet up!!!!
I hope to see as many people as I can.

After DOO: Subject and her siblings.

The screenshot shows a browser window with the URL `facebook.com/ethan.n.goddard/posts/pfbid027U4g5TKMcMd2Lrr5dcB9bTwe...`. The post is titled "Ethan John Goddard's Post" and is from Ethan John Goddard, who is with Ally Kiyomi Bellacomo. The post is dated February 6, 2023, and is public. The text of the post is as follows:

Last few days.
On the way back from Joshua Tree we stopped to hike at a spot called Big Falls. We climbed alongside the river the whole time. It was awesome. I recommend it if you haven't been.
We spent the night at our cousin Katie's place with her husband and two kids. Our Aunt Jonelle stopped by and it was great to catch up with them. So grateful I still have fam near LA.
Got a rough 4 hrs of sleep then packed the car at 5:30am to drop Megan and Billy off at the airport. Ally and I spent the day at Venice and rested our weary bodies under the Cali sun with the sight, smell, and sound of the healing ocean.
That night we shared a bed at a cute, slightly ghetto, zero privacy hostel near Venice. The bunkbed cubbies didn't even have a curtain. It was totally our vibe. We grew up staying in hostels when we visited Japan so it's nostalgic and fun for us. And you always meet interesting people. Like this one dude, Ken, who had dreads almost down to his knees and ran a mobile plant shop and had 50+ plants sitting on the top of his van.
I've been meaning to take a pic of this #StopAsianHate mural on La Cienaga Blvd ever since I moved to LA in October. The movement erupted immediately after the Covid pandemic started. The Criminal Victimization report from the Bureau of Justice Statistics revealed there were over 180,000 violent attacks on Asians in 2018 alone. I haven't looked at recent stats but I sure hope its gone down.
Yesterday I cruised around Weho and Beverly Hills to get a feel of the streets I lived and drove on. I stopped by our apartment on Harper Ave and teared up seeing Shirin's Lovely California King bed frame and mattress sitting by the curb waiting to be tossed in a dump. I pressed my face against it for several minutes and reflected on the 3 1/2 months of memories I shared that bed with her. It was hard to step away.
I met back up with my sister who was protesting in front of a clothing store that sold fur products. The organizers are apparently seeing a lot of success, naming a bunch shops that stopped selling fur after talking with them and getting yelled at over megaphones. Talk to my sister if you'd like to get more involved in animal rights activism.
I hope you have a fabulous week.
As you go through the daily grind of responsibility and task-based existence, remember to find moments to pause, breathe, and celebrate that fact that we're still alive.

The post includes a row of emojis: 🙌🌈🍌❤️. At the bottom of the screenshot, there is a comment input field with the placeholder text "Write a comment..." and icons for emojis, photos, GIFs, and stickers.

My first wedding anniversary 🌸

I went to the ISKCON temple with my brother in law and friends. The same temple Trevor and I celebrated our marriage on Earth Day last year. I got kisses from llamas and even a parrot that could say "Hare Krishna!" 😊 I was gifted free literature on reincarnation. My faith in eternal life has been a tremendous help in my grieving. I still suffer a lot but my heart is so full and I wonder a lot about where he is and what he's up to now. Had I known that 22 days was all we were going to get as a married couple, I'd still relive the experience a 1000x over. I learned of a joy I never knew existed. I learned bliss and tender companionship. I'm so grateful I got to marry the coolest, sweetest, most passionate and loving person on the day we honor Mother Earth 🙏 (Should be everyday) but something about the symbolism there is keeping me alive and steadfast. I love our planet. I love my departed husband. I love Krishna consciousness. I love all you earth angels that have blessed our life in any way.

na jāyate mriyate vā kadāchin nāyam bhūtvā bhavitā vā na bhūyaḥ ajo nityaḥ śhāśhvato 'yam purāṇo
na hanyate hanyamāne śharīre

The soul never takes birth and never dies at any time nor does it come into being again when the body is created. The soul is birthless, eternal, imperishable and timeless and is never terminated when the body is terminated ॐ

Hare Krishna 🍷

May 14. One year ago yesterday 🕯️❤️
We had a sidewalk memorial at the spot where he took his last breath.

I'm sorry I didn't ride rollercoasters with you that day 😭 I'm sorry I couldn't protect you from evil. You made me the happiest I've ever been. Never knew love like that until I met you. My heart grew hundredfold when you came into my world. It's starting to feel like it was all the best romantic dream of love and magic any starry eyed young girl could ever dream up.

"I love you so fucking much baby"... I miss hearing you say that first thing every morning. I loved getting the message "not just in this

After DOI. God I love sanctuaries. One of the tiny pockets of earth where you can feel total actual compassion free of supremacy. What happens to animals that these lucky few were rescued from is some of the darkest most vile despicable behavior by human speciesists who actually think their monetary satisfaction is worth more than a sentient animal's life. Although Ponyboy here and his friends are insanely lucky to have landed at a gorgeous loving sanctuary, its hard not to imagine where they came from, the gruesome slaughter they were destined for, the ravenous unfeeling faces that would eat their corpses and have their stomachs satisfied for 20 minutes. Poor babies. Anyone who eats meat should be forced to spend a day at a slaughterhouse. Hear their screams. Smell their blood. And ask yourself what makes you worth more than them. Fuck speciesism. To hell with human supremacy.

After DOI. At Lagoon Amusement Park in Utah, exotic animals that have been stolen from the wild are confined to tiny, barren concrete cages next to a screeching steam train and surrounded by roller coasters packed with screaming crowds. Lying against concrete and steel forced to endure absolutely unnatural and nightmarish conditions. This so-called zoo is unaccredited, unregulated, and has had countless citations from the U.S. department of agriculture over 5 decades. A petition to dismantle the zoo and relocate the animals to sanctuaries has over 250,000 signatures but apparently its not enough. Help us liberate the tortured prisoners by giving @lagoonpark hell. After DOI: Subject at VegFest. I had so much fun yesterday and these are the only pics I have to show for it ☹️ But thats kinda perfect for the sentiment I want to take note of... I knew I was going to have more fun at this year's vegfest than last but I hadn't anticipated a feeling of embodiment. This time last year, I was hyperfixated on how to portray myself post loss of everything. I wanted to show up to a crowded event to prove I wasn't a coward even though my social anxiety was at it's highest peak. It was exhausting in every way to try and smile and be present. A year later, I'm still here, but this time the smiles took no effort. I actually felt like myself and I was excited to see all the faces I've gotten to know. Once strangers now actual friends and family. Maybe that's why I've stuck around... Maybe I wanted to write my own story in SLC that wasn't a tragedy. So that this city wont only be remembered as the place that gave me everything and just as fast, took it all away. I've established an identity all my own, still full of flaws and weaknesses, but all the self-compassion I've tried this whole past year suddenly turned into self-appreciation. Is this what healing is supposed to feel like? My body still feels pretty protective but that fear of getting hurt again, losing again, a little heartbreak, little rejection, being misunderstood, judged, all that... its not the possessive dominating feeling hanging over me like it once was. I'm laugh crying as I write this. What a fucking rollercoaster. I could design some wild mental theme parks. Thank you for this community and for embracing me. Thanks @utahanimalrights and Vegfest 2023 ☹️❤️ #feeltoheal #hotyoungwidowsclub #veganlove

After DOI: Subject's update on the 2nd day of Decedent's murder trial. Today was the 2nd day of the trial for the homicide of Trevor Bellacomo. Many things have been said by the defense attempting to attack my husband's character. I was finally able to testify and tell the jury who Trevor really was. This feels like a good time to share this beautifully made video by our friend @wesburdett showing Trevor doing what he loved most - standing up for oppressed animals. As a vegan and activist, Trevor was devout, unwavering, hell of an organizer, and passionate beyond many other's understanding. He showed his commitment to the cause every day through lifestyle choices, volunteering at sanctuaries, and participating in outreach and peaceful protest. These traits complimented everything he was as a friend and lover. As my partner, he was tenderhearted, committed to growth and having a healthy relationship, a hopeFULL romantic, and the love he offered was exhilarating. It was so easy for me to fall in love and trust in him to get married and start a family. I knew with all my heart our family would have had so much tenderness, love, and passion for making the world a little less violent and a little less cruel. I could go on and on about the person he was and the good he brought to our world. There's been so much of it being shared in the last year and a half since he was unexpectedly taken away. I know he's still out there fighting for ones he loves. So I won't stop fighting to preserve his memory and carry on that legacy. I'm so grateful for everyone who has shown support and solidarity for our fallen comrade ☹️ Hope we make you proud baby ☹️ #trevorforever #animalliberation

After DOI: Subject's update on Decedent's murder trial. Hey y'all ☺ Hope everyone is having a good new year so far. Sorry for the delayed updates on trial... We beat the attempted claims of self-defense and "imperfect self-defense". They got charged with 1st degree murder and will be sentenced on the 24th. This is good news for many who've suffered and wanted some kind of closure or whatever you want to call it. Justice, I guess... I'm grateful for the hard work of our family and legal team, and whatever relief this has brought them. I personally struggle to know how I'm supposed to feel. I'm a Krishna devotee and an abolitionist. My only duty here has been telling the truth so I've done that. In terms of lessening any suffering, I am powerless. Nothing fixes anything. Nothing turns back time. Nothing brings him back. I'm just happy to have survived the holidays again and it actually was a little bit easier this year than last. If anyone wants to turn in an "impact victim statement" within the next couple weeks before sentencing, DM me with your email. 1-3 pages about the impact of this loss on your life which will help the courts decide on a sentence. Hey y'all ❤️ Hope everyone is having a good new year so far. Sorry for the delayed updates on trial...

We beat the attempted claims of self-defense and "imperfect self-defense". They got charged with 1st degree murder and will be sentenced on the 24th.

This is good news for many who've suffered and wanted some kind of closure or whatever you want to call it. Justice, I guess... I'm grateful for the hard work of our family and legal team, and whatever relief this has brought them.

I personally struggle to know how I'm supposed to feel. I'm a Krishna devotee and an abolitionist. My only duty here has been telling the truth so I've done that. In terms of lessening any suffering, I am powerless. Nothing fixes anything. Nothing turns back time. Nothing brings him back. I'm just happy to have survived the holidays again and it actually was a little bit easier this year than last.

If anyone wants to turn in an "impact victim statement" within the next couple weeks before sentencing, DM me with your email. 1-3 pages about the impact of this loss on your life which will help the courts decide on a sentence.

Hold on tight to your loved ones. Give each other strength. Nothing lasts forever. We are all we have 🙏

'A legend and a hero': Family of murdered punk rock promoter shares grief at sentencing

By Emily Ashcraft, KSL.com | Posted - March 19, 2024 at 5:03 p.m.

A Salt Lake man was sentenced Tuesday to 15 years to life in prison for stabbing a concert promoter outside a concert almost two years ago in Salt Lake City. (Kristin Murphy, Deseret News)

SALT LAKE CITY — Two weeks after their wedding, Allyson Goddard said she went to sleep assuming her husband would return home late. Instead, she received a call from officers with a homicide unit.

Trevor Francis Bellacomo, 34, was stabbed nine times outside a concert venue on May 14, 2022. Police found him bleeding and unresponsive in a nearby Arby's parking lot at 1650 S. State. A pool of blood was found near a parking lot that was being used as an outdoor concert venue for a punk rock show — a venue promoted by Bellacomo.

Before her husband's death, Goddard said she was happy and couldn't have been more excited about their future — with a planned trip to introduce him to her extended family in Japan, a clothing business the two ran together, and plans to keep punk rock alive, advocate for animals and have a family.

She said Kevin Tommy Neal, 38, killed her husband because of rumors spread around by his former girlfriends. She said people don't think about the consequences of cyberbullying and that Neal was spreading rumors and hate about her husband — but she doesn't know if they had ever even met before that night.

Goddard said her new husband made her feel like a goddess and made her want to have a family. She called him "a legend and a hero." Since he has been gone, she said nothing makes sense and she is broken.

Third District Judge James Blanch sentenced Neal, of Salt Lake City, on Tuesday to a term of 15 years to life in the Utah State Prison and told Bellacomo's family that it is a life sentence, the lower limit just recognizes the minimum time spent before parole is considered. He said it is "impossible" to give a just sentence in a murder case.

"It's a tremendous loss when something like this happens, and it's frustrating that I can't impose a sentence that would bring him back," the judge said.

Blanch told Neal that even if such rumors about Bellacomo were true, it wasn't Neal's place to bring vengeance.

Utah concert promoter charged with murder in stabbing death of man outside venue

A man who witnesses say was a concert promoter was charged Wednesday with murder and accused of stabbing a man nine times outside a concert venue in downtown Salt Lake City.

Bellacomo's mother, Shauna Scott-Bellacomo, said he was her "tall son" who would help her replace lightbulbs, answer the phone and drive her to medical appointments or to the airport. She said he talked to his grandma daily and was a shining light in their family.

"He was my son that was always there. He cared deeply about our family. He was very loyal to friends," she said.

Now, Scott-Bellacomo said the family is robbed of future grandchildren and sharing happiness.

"Trevor leaves so much behind that can't ever be replaced," she said.

Scott-Bellacomo said her son followed his dreams; he started a band at age 12 and wrote his own music.

She said he was cyber-bullied during the last four years before his murder, which she said was senseless and cowardly. She said Neal did not give medical aid or call for help after the stabbing, but returned to the concert wearing a shirt with her son's blood on it.

The mother said she understands it is ultimately up to the Utah Board of Pardons and Parole to decide how long Neal remains behind bars, but said the only justice that could Parole to decide how long Neal remains behind bars, but said the only justice that could be given in this case is Neal spending the rest of his life in prison.

Bryson Bellacomo told the judge he had just obtained a doctorate and was working toward another doctorate degree but had to take a sabbatical after his brother's death. He said his brother's loss "cast a shadow" over his research, which is aimed at reducing violence.

"The goals I had set for myself ... now seem distant and unattainable," he said.

Defense attorney Darwin Overson said the jury reached a verdict and the statute is clear for what the sentence should be. He said only a few words. Neal chose not to speak.

A jury found Neal guilty on Dec. 6, 2023, of murder, a first-degree felony, and not guilty of obstructing justice, a class A misdemeanor, after a three-day trial. The jury deliberated for about three and a half hours.

Trevor F. Bellacomo

March 10, 1988 - May 14, 2022

Trevor Bellacomo's life was taken from his wife and family in a sudden manner on May 14, 2022.

Obituary
Condolences
Send Flowers

Trevor Bellacomo's life was taken from his wife and family in a senseless murder on May 14, 2022 in SLC, Utah at the age of 34. This vicious act was a culmination of cyberbullying and harassment from within the SLC Punk Rock community. This multi-talented artist was born on March 10, 1988 to Shauna and Salvatore Bellacomo in Orem, Utah who later divorced.

Trevor started playing the drums and writing his own music at age 12 when he formed his first band, Destitute Talent and then The STDs in Vernal, UT. After moving to SLC, he played with The Twelfth Street Stagers, Boot Down Bois, Negative Charge, Never Say Never, NFFU, Revolt, Angry Streets, and many others as a guest drummer across the United States. He made at least eight albums with various bands. He also had gigs as a roadie and merchandiser. Trev always stood out in the crowd with his unique colored hair styles, tattoos and self-designed clothes. He had a successful screen-printing business, making band merchandise, patches, punk shirts and customized studded jackets that sold throughout Europe and Asia. He designed swimwear fabrics and patterns which were modeled in a Punk Calendar he created. His clothing and creations were worn by the cast in the cult movie Punk's Dead, SLC Punk 2. After the movie, Machine Gun Kelly donated the studded jacket Trevor made to the Rock & Roll Hall of Fame.

Trevor lived each waking moment to the fullest. He planned overseas trips each year to attend concerts and visit historical sites such as the pyramids in Egypt. He participated in animal rights protests from Italy to Scotland. He enjoyed the symphony, opera, but especially loved riding roller coasters at Lagoon and visiting Disney Parks with his family.

Trevor looked like a bad ass but was a passionate defender of animal rights. He was fiercely dedicated to leading a vegan lifestyle. He met the love of his life, Ally Goddard while attending an animal rights protest in CA. Together they traveled cross country to work as social activists against animal abuse from an Trevor built. They got married in April on Earth Day and were planning to fly to Japan in October for a Japanese marriage ceremony with Ally's family. Trevor had found true happiness with Ally. Trevor provided a voice for the voiceless as he organized and led events with UARC in SLC. He also volunteered at the Sage Animal Sanctuary on weekends and helped care for each animal there.

In lieu of flowers, please consider donations to either Sage Mountain Sanctuary (sagemtn.org) or the Utah Animal Rights Coalition (uarc.io/donate)

Trevor is survived by his wife, Allyson Goddard; mother, Shauna Scott Bellacomo and spouse Kevin McGeeney; his father, Salvatore Bellacomo; brother, Bryson Bellacomo, all of Salt Lake City; grandparents, Victoria Hizer-Rizvi and Jehangir Rizvi of TN; grandfather Jack Scott and Juanita Scott of KY; aunts Marianne and Josephine Bellacomo and spouse James Helman of CA.

A Wake will be held from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. on May 26th, 2022 at Starks Funeral Parlor, 3651 South 900 East, Salt Lake City, UT. A live streaming service of the celebration will be available here on this site during the celebration.
