If you knew the hell I've been through, you'd understand why I smile through the pain. It's not because it's easy, I refuse to let the struggles define me. Every scar tells a story of survival, every smile is a testament to my strength. I'm still here, and that's something worth smiling about.

During DOI As fathers day quickly approaches, If red roses grow in Heaven Lord, pick a bunch for me. Place them in my Daddy's arms & tell him they're from me. Tell him I love & miss him & when he turns to smile, place a kiss upon his cheek & hold him for a while. Remembering him is easy, I do it everyday, but there's an ache with...in my heart that'll never go away. I ..love you Dad! ..Copy and paste if your dad is in Heaven!

my thing is if you lie you hurt their feelings and if you tell the truth you hurt their feelings so you might as well tell them the truth they will respect you more if you just tell them faith is the evidence of things unseen. can you catch the wind or see a breeze? it's evidence is revealed by the leaves on the trees. similar concept to faith.

How is the spaghetti squash?

11y · Like

Deidra Elaine Wynne

It's really good and sooo much healthier than pasta

11y · Like

Alicia Mendosa

Does it have the same texture as pasta? I have been wanting to try it.

11y · Like

Deidra Elaine Wynne

Next time I'm going to try it with shrimp pasta.

11y · Like

Deidra Elaine Wynne

The texture is not the same as pasta. I used to make a sauce with butter, tomatoes, garlic, onion, peas, and shrimp and I used to use bow tie pasta. And whenever I'm craving that this is what I make. It gets satisfied the craving.

Ok thanks girl! I am not a fan of squash by itself but I figured with other stuff thrown in there it wouldn't be so bad! Trying to stay away from as much carbs as possible but my whole family loves pasta! Lol.

After DOI #SavedByGRACE Wherever we are when we come to this program is where we begin. Some of us have further to go along the road to self-actualization than others. No one of us ever arrives in this life. There is always more work to be done. Believing that our Higher Power has a plan for each of us, we accept the place where He has put us right now. We do not expect to stay in this place, but it is a necessary part of our growth and development. We cannot move on until we understand where we are now and how we got here. Our Fourth Step inventory gives us an opportunity to examine past actions, which have led to our current situation. We may not like what we discover, but an honest appraisal of our weaknesses and faults as well as our strengths is preparation for constructive change. Accepting where we are frees us from morbid obsession with the past and enables us to move on into the future May I accept where I am as the best place for me to be today.

Deidra Elaine Wynne's Post

Deidra Elaine Wynne is 🥳 feeling joyful.

November 19, 2014 · 🌐

It is not by chance but by design that the sorrows we experience throughout our lives are countered by equal servings of joy. One offsets the other. And we are strengthened by their combination.

Any pain today guarantees an equal amount of pleasure, if I willingly accept them both.

Painkiller fentanyl holds dangerous allure for addicts

Jim Woods, The Columbus Dispatch
Published 12:01 a.m. ET April 27, 2015 | Updated 8:12 a.m. ET April 27, 2015

Danielle Wynne, visible in a family photo with her twins, Abigail and Anthony, when they were much younger, died of a drug overdose in February, leaving the twins to live with their grandmother. One of the drugs that caused her death was fentanyl.

The Columbus Dispatch

We're always working to improve your experience. Let us know what you think.

Danielle Wynne was a recovering drug addict about a month out of rehab.

So when Connie Evans received the devastating phone call two months ago that her 33-year-old daughter, Danielle, had died of an overdose at a South Side house, it wasn't a total surprise.

The real shock came later when Evans saw the coroner's report: One of the drugs that had killed her daughter was the powerful prescription drug fentanyl. Wynne also had morphine and an anti-anxiety prescription drug in her blood.

Evans, of the Northwest Side, said she knows fentanyl is a strong painkiller because she was prescribed the drug after surgery. She also knows that it can be lethal if not used properly.

"It blew me away," Evans said. "The dealers don't even know what they have. My question is, where did they get the fentanyl?"

Need a break? Play the USA TODAY Daily Crossword Puzzle.

Wynne, who died on Feb. 26, was one of 15 people in Franklin County who died during the first three months of this year as a result of an overdose of fentanyl or a combination of fentanyl and another drug, according to the coroner's office.

At that rate, Franklin County deaths from the drug could be more than double last year's deaths.

"We are approaching (in mid-April) our entire last year's total," said Daniel Baker, chief toxicologist for the Franklin County coroner's office.

In all of 2014, 19 people died from fentanyl or partial fentanyl overdoses in Franklin County, according to the coroner's office. And that number was an increase over 2013.

Franklin County seems to be following a national surge in fentanyl overdoses that started in 2013 in Eastern states such as New Jersey, Rhode Island and Pennsylvania before spreading to the Midwest.

One other central Ohio county has noticed an uptick. Ed Breining, chief investigator for the Fairfield County coroner, said he began to see an increase in fentanyl-related deaths during the past year. Each time, he said, it has been a heroin-fentanyl mix.

The Delaware, Madison, Pickaway and Union county coroners' offices said they have seen no deaths from fentanyl this year.

When fentanyl is prescribed by a doctor, it is sometimes through an IV but most often is administered via a skin patch that gives constant pain relief for people with chronic conditions. Those patches are sometimes chewed by drug addicts, which can be an instant recipe for death. But often, when fentanyl is manufactured illegally, it's in a powder form that can be mixed with other drugs such as heroin.

"If you use both together, you are inviting big trouble," said Paul Coleman, the president and CEO of Maryhaven, Franklin County's largest drug- and alcohol-treatment center.

Fentanyl is considered to be up to 100 times stronger than morphine and 30 to 50 times more powerful than heroin, said Timothy Plancon, assistant special agent in charge of the federal Drug Enforcement Administration's Columbus office.

"Many drug users are poly-drug users," Baker said, noting that autopsies of overdose victims frequently find traces of other drugs, as the autopsy did in Wynne's case.

"The majority of the fentanyl that's being seized (now) in the Midwest is from clandestine labs in Mexico," said Richard Isaacson, a DEA spokesman from Detroit.

The DEA has tracked a significant increase nationwide in fentanyl cases during the past two years. Last year, the DEA counted 3,344 cases nationwide in which it suspected fentanyl; that more than triples the total of 942 cases in 2013.

Laureen Marinetti, who recently worked in the Montgomery County coroner's office before taking a job in private industry in California, wrote The Story of Heroin's Progression in the State of Ohio for Drugs in the News. She noted that mixing fentanyl with heroin seems to be the most-recent drug development in the state.

"The speculation is that the customers, being dissatisfied with the decreasing quality of the heroin, were driving the process for the dealers to obtain a better product," Marinetti wrote. "Apparently, the dealers were not aware of what occurred in the past and must know that killing your customers is never a good business practice."

Franklin County Coroner Anahi Ortiz said she has helped organize the Drug Overdose Death Initiative in response to the problem. She is starting to hold monthly meetings with officials in law enforcement, the courts, health care, emergency services and drug treatment to review deaths and discuss strategies. Cuyahoga County has a similar panel.

One result from the meetings is that hospital emergency departments and paramedics have a new strategy for using Naxolone, better known as Narcan, a drug that can reverse an overdose and save a drug user's life.

Ortiz said that if emergency workers know that a person has overdosed with fentanyl, a larger dose of Narcan must be used.

Meanwhile, Connie Evans and her husband, Craig, are raising their daughter's twin teenagers and hoping that people can learn from Danielle's death. Deidra Wynne, Danielle's twin sister, also is working toward that end.

Deidra said she also had a problem with drugs; she began abusing when she was 17.

She said her sister was a "soccer mom" who didn't even smoke a cigarette until she was 29. But then, she said, her sister fell in with the wrong crowd.

Cindi Gremling, who helps run an inner-city ministry called Hazel's House of Hope, said Danielle Wynne was one of six women she personally knew who died of overdoses this past year. Gremling said that Danielle had helped serve a Thanksgiving dinner at the South Side community house.

"People on the streets are aware that heroin is being laced with other things," but many don't think about the consequences, Gremling said. "They just want to get high."

Deidra Wynne has been clean for a year and regularly speaks to heroin addicts who are going through a detox program at Maryhaven.

"Some of us have to die for some of us to live," she said. "I don't want to go back out there and die."

After DOI While you dope boys getting out of bed and getting your packs together. While you have 20 + people already lined up waiting while you say you about pull up but still ain't even left your house yet, as you throw on your flashy clothes plenty of people have died to help you buy, as you get in your car or rental do y'all think about the children who wont eat cause their parents spending their last dime to buy your poison? Just know as your pockets fill hearts are being broke, children are left parent less .mothers and fathers are burying their children! So as you go place to place your on a murdering spree a rampage , your nothing more then the devil dressed up in corner store fashion! What would you do ?how would you feel if it was your mother your father,sister,brother or children would you still push that shit? Addiction is a family disease, one person may use but the whole family will suffer.. ☹️ Copied and pasted but this really hit home, considering all the family & friends I have lost from this epidemic..

After DOI Michelle Bishop Thank you so much !! Your IG post just made my whole day !! John Bishop and Michelle put together Bishbodies bootcamp. I was unable to do B.B.1 because of my pregnancy. So when after Michelle had her baby as a post partum mama. She posted that there was going to do B.B. 2. I was all in I had put all of my excuses aside and showed up for 8 weeks at just 25 minutes a day 6 days a week. I didn't follow a restricted diet. I ate semi healthy as I'm breastfeeding and had to keep up with my calories. The B.B. community has been so motivating. I had my days where I didn't want to workout. However I would get on the group page and all of the positivity and super energy gave me the push and drive I needed to push through it !! The most amazing workout was the live workout Michelle invited all those that were in Ohio to join. Can't wait for BB 4. And whatever they have up there sleeves for 2018 !!!!

After DOI So grateful that I don't have to fall into that statistic today. Please say a prayer for those still sick and suffering in addiction. May yours prayer get them to seek help. I know ALOT of prayers steered me in the right direction. If I can do it ANYONE can. If your struggling and don't knew where to seek help. We are losing people left and right at an alarming rate. I'm always willing to help in anyway God willing that I can. All you have to do is pick up the phone and call.

After DOI COPIED AND SHARED BROKEN AND FIXED !! SAVED BY GRACE !! I was in Dollar Tree last night and there was a lady and two kids behind me in the LONG line. One was a big kid, one was a toddler. The bigger one had a pack of glow sticks and the baby was screaming for them so the Mom opened the pack and gave him one, which stopped his tears. He walked around with it smiling, but then the bigger boy took it and the baby started screaming again. Just as the Mom was about to fuss at the older child, he bent the glow sticks and handed it back to the baby. As we walked outside at the same time, the baby noticed that the stick was now glowing and his brother said "I had to break it so you could get the full effect from it." I almost ran because I could hear God saying to me, "I had to break you too show you why I created you. You had to go through it so you could fulfill your purpose." That little baby was happy just swinging that "unbroken" glow sticks around in the air because he didn't understand what it was created to do which was "glow". There are some people who will be content just "being" but some of us that God has chosen, we have to be "broken". We have to get sick. We go through divorce. We have to bury our spouse, parents, sister, best friend, or our child because, in those moments of desperation, God is breaking us but when the breaking is done, then we will be able to see the reason for which we were created. Copy & share this on your time line if you have experience being broken. Don't forget to post your picture.

After DOI Yesterday my aunt asked me what I got for Christmas. Without a thought or hesitation i found myself saying "I got to see the smiles on my family's faces." Now that the stress of the hustle and bustle of Christmas has settled. I am left in Ah with positive and overwhelming cup full of feelings. Emotion that has literally brought tears to my eyes. My life has had such a positive transformation and taken on new meaning. I feel so incredibly blessed to have this family, to be a husband and father. Although this has been by far the busiest, it has also been the best Christmas ever. #family #blessings #blessed #newlife #love #loveofmylife #lovemylife #lovemywife #sobriety #promisesofgod

After DOI I know I've been pretty sappy lately, i think it may be due to the holidays. Maybe I've just had quite a bit of time on my hands to to think about life. However i can't help but give credit where credit is due. This woman is the most beautiful person I know inside and out. She's a huge part of the reason i am who i am today. She has taught me a lot about love and life. I don't think that one person could love another person more than I love her. My heart beats a tune of passion that is played for only her. I couldn't imagine my life any other way with anybody else. #soulmates #soulmate #twinflame #ilovehersomuch #lloveher #shesmylife #shesmywife

After DOI I have not had to spend hours in the gym or following a meal plan. The last 2 months I've had plenty of holiday meals and #becauselife moments. All while with having to keep up my calories because of breastfeeding. Since starting this program September 18 2017 with just 24 minutes a day. I have lost 20lbs and am back to pre pregnancy weight at 9 months post partum. I have never been more comfortable with my body as I am now. The amazing support from all of the woman and Mikey has been absolutely incredible. The first pic is the progress from the last 2 months. The second was day 1 pic and now. I could not express how much gratitude I have for @mshelllll she is an amazing leader #theladiesedge #burnyourmealplan #sisterhoodplusmikey #24minutesaday #athomeworkouts

After DOI For those using or know someone seeking help, I just received this news....please share...too many are dying! I wanted to make you all aware of the below initiative by the Whitehall Fire Department—they are now officially operating a Safe Station. That means that anyone who is in active addiction can walk into the Whitehall fire station 24/7, receive a brief medical evaluation, and be transported for treatment assistance. For individuals who are stable and meet the medical criteria, they will be transported to the Maryhaven Stabilization center. For individuals with medical concerns, they can be transported to the emergency department and connected with the REACT team. This is voluntary, individuals do not have to go if they change their mind. We are also hoping to add more partners to transport to as the initiative continues. Individuals seeking this help can also bring their personal use drugs/tools and turn them in at the station without any legal ramifications. The only time the police will be called is if a person is found to have a weapon, begins threatening or acting aggressively, or brings in more than personal use drugs/tools. The individual does not have to reside in Whitehall, they simply have to make it to the Whitehall Fire Station

After DOI Typically, I am pretty used to people I know dying. It just comes with the territory of the life I lived in my past. I don't go through the motions of a "normal" cycle of grief. There's always the initial shock, but then it's normally the acceptance stage. There is no discrimination in this hell of addiction. This epidemic will claim ANYBODY. I am begging you, if you need help, REACH OUT. If you're living in the solution, PLEASE, REACH OUT to those who you know are struggling. Every life is worth saving. Nobody deserves to live like this. Nobody deserves to feel alone, especially when they're never alone. I pray for each and everyone of you. I pray we find peace in this world. I pray we see that life isn't all that bad. After DOI ☐ Watching someone you love, that has fought so hard to beat addiction, throw everything away and sink back into a life that will most likely lead to jail or death, is one of the hardest things you will ever do. You want to help them back to a clean and sober life but you realize by doing this, as you have so many times before, will now just be enabling them because it will show them that you will always be there to bail them out. You want to grab and shake them and say "What are you doing?!?!" But, at some point you realize that it would'nt make a difference. So you sit back and watch the tragedy unfold, as if you are watching a movie. Feeling helpless to stop it, feeling like you haven't done enough to help, even though you know only the addict can help themselves. Loving a drug addict or an active alcoholic is the hardest thing you will ever have to go through. I have friends and family who have gone through this battle. Battling a drug and/or an alcohol addiction is a beast for the person addicted and the ones who love them. So I am asking you to stand with me in prayer for every family member and friend who has lost their battle with drugs and alcohol and those who continue to conquer it! Put this on your page for one hour if you know someone who has or had an addiction. And thanks in advance.

The ascension process can feel hellish. We feel useless and unproductive and want to exit. From a higher perspective, this is essential for the collective.

After DOI Dear Addict Haters: Hello, you don't know me but I am an addict. I am one of the "junkies" you love to bash whenever someone mentions addiction on social media or hear it in conversation. I know it's hard to forgive the things we sometimes do because of our addiction, but I have a question for you. What is the worst thing you have ever done? Obviously, I won't get an answer to this question but think about it. The thing that you hate that you did. You know, that one thing that not too many people even know about. Well, what if everyone knew about it? What if for the rest of your life you were labeled by that one act that you would erase in a second if you had the chance? That is what being an addict is like, kind of. Now, I don't feel like being an addict is the worst thing a person can be or do. You, however, feel like it's a terrible thing. Don't get me wrong: If I could erase it from my life, I would. In an instant, it would be gone, but I don't have that option. I can't even do what you do and pretend that this thing I did didn't happen. In order for me to ensure it never happens again, I have to work hard on making sure it doesn't. If I don't, my disease will tell me I can have a drink or do a line and not fall back into full-blown addiction, but I will. Do you work hard to make sure your worst thing never happens again? Let me guess... you are thinking, Addiction is not a disease. It's a choice. Right? Yes, all addiction starts with a choice. The same damn choice you made when you were young and hanging out with friends. You drank the same beer I drank. The same pot I smoked. You even tried the same line of white stuff someone put in front of you at a party. You were able to walk away and not take it to the extreme. Since I have the disease, I will spend the rest of my life either struggling to stay high or fighting to stay clean. As children, we don't decide we would rather be an addict instead of a cop. You don't see children pretending that their dolls and stuffed animals are dope sick. When is the last time you talked to a little girl who told you she couldn't wait to grow up so she could turn tricks to feed the insatiable hunger of her drug addiction? My aunt didn't tell me about her exciting plans to become homeless. My dad, not one time, told my mother to think twice before marrying him because he had high hopes of becoming an angry drunk. My best friend didn't blow out the candles as a child wishing for a substance abuse disorder because she couldn't wait for the day her kids would go to foster care. Nobody Wants to have substance use disorder. Some of us just do. So always remember: You made those same choices, too. You just got lucky that it was me and not you. If you still have doubts, you can take those up with the Center for Disease Control or the United States Surgeon General. They have classified addiction as a disease, but then again... I am sure you know more about it than they do, right? I pray that you don't have to reevaluate these opinions because you find out your child or parent is an addict. If you do, just know that we will accept you into our community. We will help your loved one. Do you know why we would do that? Because we are good people who just want the chance to live like everyone else. So please, before you write another post bashing people who are suffering, think about it. Not only are you hurting the people who have the disease, you could be hurting everyone that loves them. You have people on your friends list or people that may overhear you at work who have children who are suffering right this moment from addiction. What did they do to deserve the awful things you put out into the universe that do nothing but perpetuate hate and judgment? You have a right to your opinion. But no matter what, hurting people is wrong. #WeDoRecover ohh by the way please copy and paste share ur pic with this so we can all spread the love and happiness we do live on♥† Jesus†♥

Do you work hard to make sure your worst thing never happens again? Let me guess... you are thinking, Addiction is not a disease. It's a choice. Right?

Yes, all addiction starts with a choice.

The same damn choice you made when you were young and hanging out with friends. You drank the same beer I drank. The same pot I smoked. You even tried the same line of white stuff someone put in front of you at a party. You were able to walk away and not take it to the extreme.

Since I have the disease, I will spend the rest of my life either struggling to stay high or fighting to stay clean.

As children, we don't decide we would rather be an addict instead of a cop.

You don't see children pretending that their dolls and stuffed animals are dope sick.

When is the last time you talked to a little girl who told you she couldn't wait to grow up so she could turn tricks to feed the insatiable hunger of her drug addiction?

My aunt didn't tell me about her exciting plans to become homeless.

My dad, not one time, told my mother to think twice before marrying him because he had high hopes of becoming an angry drunk.

My best friend didn't blow out the candles as a child wishing for a substance abuse disorder because she couldn't wait for the day her kids would go to foster care.

Nobody Wants to have substance use disorder.

Some of us just do.

So always remember:

You made those same choices, too.

You just got lucky that it was me and not you.

If you still have doubts, you can take those up with the Center for Disease Control or the United States Surgeon General. They have classified addiction as a disease, but then again... I am sure you know more about it than they do, right?

addict. if you do, just know that we will accept you into our community. we will help your loved one. Do you know why we would do that? Because we are good people who just want the chance to live like everyone else.

So please, before you write another post bashing people who are suffering, think about it. Not only are you hurting the people who have the disease, you could be hurting everyone that loves them. You have people on your friends list or people that may overhear you at work who have children who are suffering right this moment from addiction. What did they do to deserve the awful things you put out into the universe that do nothing but perpetuate hate and judgment?

You have a right to your opinion. But no matter what, hurting people is wrong.

As u hear in video cop seems so agitated and asks why he came out he doesn't look like Ron O'Brien or the attorney general so not to worry about them like what's really going on with him . I couldn't find it after I was so sad I thought I lost it this necklace means a lot to me. I realized I didn't have it around my neck. I went back and looked all over for it. I finally found it Jeni Eilers made it for me after my sister Danielle Wynne passed. He grabbed my pandora bracelet a few weeks ago I was showing him the turtle and frog on it and he turned it around to the picture of my sister and I he said wow. After DOI Was a good evening out at Jimmy V's celebrating overdose awareness day 🍷🍷 I found a makeup bag that got lost while we were moving. It had my sisters favorite MAC eyeshadow and a lip gloss that was one of my best friends favorite Mac lip gloss in it. Its a not a coincidence that I found it with both things in it the day of overdose awareness day. So I wore both the eyeshadow and the lip gloss colors in Honor of them. It's not every day that I can wear purple eyeshadow and pink lip gloss.

✅ FACT:

Collagen starts to deplete in our 20's and now that I'm 38 🙄, I've learned youthfulness comes from the inside-out!

Just 2 TBSP a day has:

- ◆ improved my skin hydration
- ◆ grown longer/healthier nails, hair, and yes, eyebrows and lashes

After DOI I hit my vape 1 time yesterday. I went 15 hours before a caved yesterday around 4pm. I was watching a video last night. The man was talking about if you want to do something. You have to “act as if”. If you want to quit smoking “act as if you are already a non smoker. If you want to lose 10lbs “act as if” you have already achieved that goal. I asked myself this morning . How I would feel , it were 10 days vape free ? The rest of my morning. I “acted as if” I were already there. The mind is a very powerful thing !! With a tiny bit of willingness on my part. I almost have 24 hours vape free ☺️ ❤️ Thank you so much Roxanne Dodson for you answering all of my questions. Thank everyone who has given me tips and suggestions.

After DOI It's a blessing when people walk out your life. Whoa, really? Yeah, really. I have cut so many toxic people out of my life. So happy they have been replaced by some of the best friends and people that I call my God given family. You see.. when your circle decreases in size, it actually increases in VALUE. It is not a loss. And I am ALL for quality over quantity. It allows you to see who is really meant to be in your life and who chooses to love you for exactly who you are; flaws, disagreements and all. #IsByeFeliciaStillAThing ? If you know me, like REALLY know me.. You know I accept everyone for who they are and I love HARD. All I want is the best for everyone and to spread positivity, love, light and hope. I own up to my mistakes and I am always open to change, new opportunities, loving a little harder and listening. Nobody's perfect - We are always learning, growing, developing. But one thing I've learned is: The more you know who you are and love your decisions, the less you need others to love them.

I am now able to contribute. 🙏💖💖💖 AND be a stay at home mom at the same time.

What a complete blessing it is, that I have earned an incentive trip to CABO 🙏💖💖💖 What the heck is this MY life !!! 🙏💖💖💖 I would have never been able to to this without my amazing leader and team. My heart is so full 🙏💖💖💖 Thank you for everyone who has supported me.

Which just happens to land on 11/11 🙏💖💖💖 the day that my husband and I celebrate our birthdays.

Mine the 16th and his is the 6th. I get to give my husband the best birthday present this year. 🙏💖💖💖. See less — feeling blessed with David W Galbraith II.

After DOI No need to overthink It's simple...LIQUID COLLAGEN! LISTEN... Walk to the garbage, throw out that powdered collagen you got at Target and stop wasting your ☹ and ☹! There can be so much icky stuff in those powder formulas ☹ There IS a difference; not ALL Collagen is created equal...and you know as well as I do that...YOU GET WHAT YOU PAY FOR! Your body NEEDS ingestible, fast absorbing, type 2 collagen + HA matrix! And this formulation has been backed by clinical trials to increase your hyaluronic acid (wrinkle filler) by 6000% in 28 days. ☹ #askmewhichone You need Collagen if you are seeking: ☹☹♀ longer healthier hair! ☹ fuller lashes + brows! ☹ more radiant skin! ☹ that inside-out glow that has people asking you "Girllllll, what are you doing?" ☹☹ less joint discomfort! ☹☹ to get rid of wrinkles from the inside out! It's just not comparable to anything else out there! Believe me I have tried about 5 different brands. Message me for info and how I can save you 30%

After DO Instead of doing a monthly giveaway for August, I have a better idea.....👀👀 If you buy 2 bottles of COLLAGEN (that's a month's supply), YOU GET ONE 1 EXTRA BOTTLE. No strings attached. Reorders or new orders. If you've been reading and wondering about this liquid collagen, now is your chance to capitalize!

After DOI Do you ever have one of those surreal moments when life seems to stop for a moment and you are consumed with gratitude that you are alive?! I genuinely have so much to be grateful for, I found myself in tears, just so full of gratitude for where I am in my life, and for all that I have been given. For my family, friends, all those that I work with, my business, my health and the gift of progress vs. perfection. As I've gotten older, I've become more "selective with my circle." ☐ I choose to only surround myself with people who make me better. As a society, we are on social a lot. After DOI Day 2 after explant ♥️ What I was most looking forward to after explant was taking a full deep breathe. Something I have not been able to do for awhile. I took a full deep breath TODAY !! Most if not all of my symptoms I just chalked up to getting older. I had a few friends that explanted which made me start doing my research on breast implant illness. I decided this was not how I was supposed to feel at 39. My future is definitely going to be so much brighter. I am so happy to be on the lighter side. Huge gratitude out to everyone who made this possible especially my amazing husband @dgalbraith0105 and my incredible dr @davidrankinmd #thehealisreal #bii #breastimplantillness #breastimplantremoval #breastimplantillnesssurvivor

After DOI Day 4 post op from explant ♥ This time last week I was experiencing severe anxiety and depression. So much that I barely left the house to do anything. It broke my heart to tell my children/grandchildren Sorry mom/ Mimi doesn't feel good". To even do a puzzle or game was daunting. Family outings would drain me or give me bad panic attacks. I felt as if I were 80 years old. Today I was able to go to the turtle hospital with very little anxiety. I felt rested my eyes didn't burn or feel heavy. 184w

deidrawynne_16 Day 4 post op from explant ❤️
This time last week I was experiencing severe anxiety and depression. So much that I barely left the house to do anything. It broke my heart to tell my children/grandchildren Sorry mom/ Mimi doesn't feel good. To even do a puzzle or game was daunting. Family outings would drain me or give me bad panic attacks. I felt as if I were 80 years old. Today I was able to go to the turtle hospital with very little anxiety. I felt rested my eyes didn't burn or feel heavy.

After DOI Day 5 post op explant. Today didn't start out the way I wanted it to. I went to my appointment with @davidrankinmd. I was told my drains could not come out today. As they are still draining too much fluid. I have 2 choices I can sit around and be sad. However I know that is not good for my healing. So I quickly shifted my mindset and turned the frown upside down. I am choosing to look at the positive and what I am able to do instead of the things I can't. A few things I am grateful for. 1. The ability to be surrounded by my caring husband @dgalbraith0105 and my incredible mother in law. 2. To be able to have healthy clean food to eat. 3. Knowing that finally these toxic bags are out of my body. 4. To be in the sunshine state relaxing ✨ #explantjourney #bii #day5 #drythemtearsandkeepitmovin #turnthefrownupsidedown #mindsetiseverything #happyhealthyhumble #breastimplantillnesssurvivor #breastimplantremoval #sunshinetherapy #bestmotherinlaw #chillingpoolside☺

After DOI Day 12 post op. 1st day back to the gym after surgery. I put a real shirt on today. It feels good to be back to my God given body. My body is thanking me as well. This time last week I had no energy at all to even come walk. I'm just walking on the treadmill. I won't be able to start lifting for 6-8 weeks.

After DOI I am the face of a Recovering Addict. I was a drug abuser. Not just of one drug either. I abused various drugs and alcohol too. I made bad decisions because of my drug abuse. I threw years of my life, and intricate pieces of my life away without realizing it. But I'm not ashamed of my past. Anyone who knows me, knows I am an open book. TRANSPARENCY at its finest! I am proud of who I have become & continue to become everyday. My past drug use does NOT define me as a whole. It is simply a part of my history. A part that I will not be ashamed of because it taught me what I NEVER want to be again. Addiction does not discriminate. We HAVE to stop pretending that addiction is something to be ashamed of. We HAVE to talk about it. Addiction sucks for the addicts & their families/friends. But when we silence the problem and pretend like everything is okay when it isn't, the fire grows & disintegrates everything in it's path. People are dying. We HAVE to talk about it and share our stories. We just have to. Please re-share with your own picture ☐

what made her beautiful was not her appearance or what she achieved,
but in her love and in her courage, and her audacity to believe:
no matter the darkness
around her,
Light ran wild within her,
and that was the way
she came alive, and it showed up in everything.

After DOI This is for the woman or man who thinks they have run out of time, they don't have the right kind of degree, their environment isn't as supportive as they thought or they can't seem catch a damn break... This is your reminder NONE OF THAT MATTERS. What matters is what lies inside the middle of your chest ♥, what you believe you are, what you believe you can do, and what hunger you have stored still inside of you. You are NOT done until you are actually done! Stop telling yourself you missed the boat, it's too late, you're too old. Start telling yourself: - I was chosen for GREATNESS! - God still has me on this earth for a darn good reason! - Time is what I MAKE OF IT. - If I can think it & envision it then I can become it! - Every single person starts from no where but can end anywhere!!! Remember: we all start scared, we all start at zero, we all start from nothing. If you think you can you are RIGHT. And if you think you cannot, you are also right. Which one is it□□□...

Figure 1. A schematic diagram of the experimental design. The subjects were divided into two groups: the control group and the experimental group. The control group received a standard training program, while the experimental group received a modified training program. The experimental group was further divided into two subgroups: the low-intensity group and the high-intensity group. The low-intensity group received a low-intensity training program, while the high-intensity group received a high-intensity training program. The subjects were then subjected to a series of tests to measure their performance and physiological responses. The results of the tests were compared between the control group and the experimental group, and between the low-intensity group and the high-intensity group.

After DOI Evolve or remain are the choices I GET to wake up with each day. If you choose to remain unchanged, you will be presented with the same challenges, the same routine, the same storms, the same situations, until you learn from them, until you love yourself enough to say "no more", until you choose change. If you choose to evolve, you will connect with the strength within you, you will explore what lies outside of the comfort zone, you will awaken to love, you will become, you will be. You have everything you need. Choose to evolve. Choose love.

After DOI She didn't choose her story In fact, it chose her. She holds herself together with beautiful composure and magnificent courage. What separates her from the rest- you never see her break down, lose her cool or fall apart. The facade she has mastered is evident to everyone she meets, yet the woman who cries herself to sleep if she can sleep at all , is a person that they would never believe exists , strength, for her extraordinary courage in this life. If people knew the struggles she has overcome, the pain she has endured and the mountains she's climbed. She hurts in ways most will never understand and braves the pain with a resolve that would bring most humans to their knees.. But that's just who she is and how she lives. She wasn't given any other choice, so she does what she has to do to keep moving forward with a pep in her step and a light in her heart.. Pain has almost wrecked her more times than she knows and still, she carries on. She feels every broken heart and every harsh word. The difference between her and the rest? She doesn't let the pain break her. She's so many things - warrior, survivor and dreamer.. But she's so much more than that. When all she wants to do is fall apart, she spreads her wings and flies higher. That's who she is and what she will always be. A STRONG WOMAN ☐

After DOI I know I'm the bad in someone's story. I've reached a level of self-awareness to understand I don't need to explain myself. I don't need to provide my side of the tale. Their perception of me was a reflection of their deflection. I'm satisfied with letting them live with the narrative that allows them to heal. If someone couldn't hear, see, or feel me, that was enough clarity for me to take myself out of the story. I know my feelings were valid. I won't let their version of me distract me from living my authentic self. I don't have the time to waste the effort; I'll put my energy. into those who take me seriously. I'll be planting myself in spaces that help me grow.

After DOI Let people believe what they want the universe KNOWS the truth and SEES your heart. I am and will never be perfect. I lived my ENTIRE life under a false belief system of thinking I had to be perfect ALL of the time. I knew almost 9 years ago I was meant to be happy and free. I went through the worst heartbreak of my entire life losing my twin sister. Instead of being bitter & hateful I turned that anger into passion and focused on humans that needed me. I gave 5 years of my life doing my absolute best and turning my life around. There was so much pressure of thinking I had to be perfect all of the time and keep up with the Joneses. I did not give myself time to fully grieve the passing of my sister. I broke in 2019. I became isolated from the people that truly love me unconditionally. I stayed stuck in a cycle for the 4 years. I became a version that I hated. I became broken & bitter. That is not who I was created to be. Last year I broke free and started healing from the things that I allowed to break me. I realized I AM not perfect and the more I learn and grow the Joneses do not have ANYTHING that I ever want. We as humans are not meant to harbor hate. I do not ever again want to lose myself so much that I harbor hate for myself or anyone else. I love the human I am today. Healing is not for the weak. Shedding an identity that I thought served my purpose was extremely heartbreaking. However I will not allow it to break me. I get shown daily I am worth love and respect from those that love me.

Let people believe what they want the universe KNOWS the truth and SEES your heart. I am and will never be perfect. I lived my ENTIRE life under a false belief system of thinking I had to be perfect ALL of the time.

Last year I broke free and started hearing from the things that I allowed to break me. I realized I AM not perfect and the more I learn and grow the Joneses do not have ANYTHING that I ever want.

After DOI "Ending a relationship is an act of kindness rather than something that is abusive, selfish, or immoral. If we love someone else, if we need to be alone, or if for whatever reason we can no longer live our truth within the confines of a relationship we must all be granted the freedom to walk away from it with dignity without being seen as abandoning our partner, or breaking a sacred vow. Selfishness is keeping an unwilling partner trapped. Leaving someone whom we once loved, or even still love, takes a great deal of courage, and that kind of bravery is rarely recognized. We praise those who can muster the strength to leave abusive situations, but condemn those who part ways because we have evolved out of a relationship. Unfortunately, this judgment prevents so many individuals from moving forward emotionally and spiritually. It keeps people mired in stagnant, unhealthy situations where they aren't truly content, because to leave would be to face judgment, to be called a bad person. With that judgment from peers, friends, and family members comes loss instead of the understanding and compassion that both uncoupled partners need—not just the one who feels left behind. Real love is fluid and expansive. It needs freedom. Love evolves and shifts over time, just as our perceptions of it do, and should. Love never fails," but sometimes, between two people, it moves on. We must allow this to happen freely for ourselves, our partners, our loved ones, and for public figures without projecting our own expectations or judgments upon them. Just because a relationship ends, does not mean it has failed, it has "completed."

After DOI We, humans♀♂, love to have control over our lives. I mean, I don't see why anybody would disagree. Control keeps us comfortable. But that's not what happens in reality. After DOI There's a special kind of strength that comes from being broken and rebuilt by God. When people try to tear you down, they're only helping you step into something greater. God has a way of turning our pain into purpose, and when He lifts you up, even those who doubted, hurt, or betrayed you will have to witness your rise. That's not just karma it's divine justice !! So, to everyone who tried to break me. THANK YOU !! You played a part in my story, and I'm stronger and wiser because of it. Now, watch what happens when God takes over.

The video shows a woman with long dark hair, wearing a grey t-shirt with a red and white graphic, holding a black sign with white text that reads "I DON'T NEED TO GET REVENGE FOR WHAT YOU". She is standing in a room with a string of warm white lights in the background and a string of colorful heart-shaped ornaments hanging from the ceiling.

After DOI As the year comes close to an end, you'll see so many posts filled with milestones, achievements, and big wins from 2024. However if you're feeling like your year wasn't as eventful or productive, this is your reminder it's okay if all you did this year was survive. Simply getting through the challenges life throws at us is the biggest victory of all. Be gentle with yourself, and take a moment to be grateful you made it. That's something worth celebrating.

 seejenrunband I am in extreme pain. I have been for a long time. So bad, I thought I must be dying, because the physical pain is so unbearable. My driver's license gone, and with no money, I wanted to die in the house I grew up in with the parents who gave me the book le petit prince. As idealistic and peaceful people, you taught me to believe in myself and you, my family, and that I could be whoever I wanted to be... The sky is the limit. With fanciful ideas, and a creative intuitive mind, I practiced hard at the things I loved to do and what I was good at. I loved writing, but a grown up teacher thought I couldn't be that talented. I directed and all of my class started in musicals at recess, but what was our theater was torn down, and as I fought to overcome tremendous illness and pain so I could sing my emotions in front of the other children and also their grown ups. We were taught to do what they say and to believe them. I didn't understand why other grown up school teachers grew angry and tired of my pain and disabilities, as my personal grown ups believed I could accomplish anything I could dream. And boy do I have big and amazing dreams. I keep my dreams and my grown ups and all the people in my musicals close to my heart still. Thank you, the end. What is this teaching me?

Instead of waiting for motivation, lean into discipline.

After DOI Some things in life can't be rushed growth, healing, understanding. Just like the deepest roots take time to anchor, so do we. Patience isn't about waiting; it's about trusting. Trusting that every season, every storm, every slow moment is shaping us into something stronger, something unshakable. Today, I'm reminding myself that deep roots don't fear the wind. Whatever life is unfolding, I'll stand firm, breathe deep, and let time do its work. #DeepRootedPatience #ThursdayThoughts #TrustTheProcess"
