The image shows a woman with dark hair, wearing a pink patterned top, holding a young child. They are standing in front of a large screen displaying a presentation titled "Men in Kilts: A Roadtrip with [unclear] and Graham". The screen also features text about "adventures along on their adventures" and "heritage of their native country, meeting" and "celebrating proud moments of us".

Zyon to school we go

The image consists of two side-by-side photographs of a young child, likely a toddler, in an outdoor setting. The child is wearing a bright red t-shirt and dark shorts. In both photos, the child is holding a clear plastic water bottle. The ground is covered with a layer of reddish-brown mulch. In the background, there is a concrete driveway and the front of a silver car. The lighting suggests it might be late afternoon or early morning. The two photos appear to be sequential shots of the same scene.

I believe this with all my heart. Years ago we were kinder. Everybody looked out for one another. We need to go back to that. It takes us all. We gotta do better at looking out for each other instead of breaking each other down. I'm going to make a bet, that out of my family and friends, less than 4 will take the time to put this on their wall. This is so true and it's awful.
