Post from Subject about being scared Caption: If I could tell you I wasn't scared I would be lying. 34 weeks pregnant during a pandemic a race war and a war among the people scares me. I am in a complete different state of what I was in eight years ago to now. Younger a little scared but excited and nervous at the same time typical New mom jitters. Now scared starting over new mom jitters but ready to meet my little girl. Sometimes being pregnant it's not all about the flutters hearing the heartbeat and eating the right things. Being pregnant is more or less brings you to reality of what's about to happen. You still worry about what you eat those flutters still get you and they are honestly a feeling you will never forget and that heartbeat is always something you look forward to hearing. What a joyous thing and a blessing a young woman can go through. With Being pregnant comes with a lot of emotion you're happy with second you're angry the next and next thing you know you're crying in the doctors office. You say things to people you don't mean, you do things to people you don't mean and somethings you can't take back. I quickly get reminded that I just need to breathe sometimes that's easier said than done. I think as a society we are all on edge because we don't know what the future holds. We are you scared to go out in public because we might get sick or someone might hurt us. How did we get here and why are we here that's the question. I have to remember to pray, pray for peace, pray for calmness, pray for patience and pray for stability. If I personally have hurt your feelings I truly am sorry. Somethings I just can't control. I need to learn to control it but I can't. I have one thing that I can ask of you if you do see that pregnant friend or that pregnant mom give her grace, give her space, pray for her and make your take your help. One thing she is is scared.

Subject shared a post for her husband Caption: 18 years ago you walked into my life. Although I was not the most fun person that night and I kept forgetting your name you still called me at 3am just to talk to me. We have been through so many things in 18 years. College, concerts, marriage, babies, and almost losing me. You have sat by my side and held my hand through them all. I am blessed to have you in my life. You are an amazing dad, friend, husband, son, grandson, and uncle. Thank you for loving me I LOVE YOU. this is not our wedding anniversary

Faces of Sepsis

The stories here have been shared by sepsis survivors and by those who loved them. The goal is to educate the public about sepsis and how it affects those who have sepsis and their families. It also provides people with the opportunity to write their story. It's often the first time they have really thought about what happened and where they are now. Survivors share their experiences of how they became ill, their treatment, and their road to recovery, and loved ones share stories of loss. Some stories end on a positive note, but some paint a picture of and talk about it. Some people survive and go silent. Some people survive and create. Everyone deals with unimaginable pain in their own way, and everyone is entitled to that, without judgment. So the next time you look at someone's life covetously, remember... you may not want to endure what they are enduring right now, at this moment, whilst they sit so quietly before you, looking like a calm ocean on a sunny day. Remember how vast the ocean's boundaries are.

SOME PEOPLE SURVIVE

Whilst somewhere the water is calm, in another place in the very same ocean, there is a colossal storm.

CPTSD

Find people who will allow you to talk openly about your triggers and emotions.

Work with a Trauma Informed Professional who understands emotional flashbacks.

Create routines and minimize unnecessary stressors.

Remind yourself often that triggers are related to past events to help you stay oriented to time and space.

Think ahead of the types of things that trigger you to help you NOT feel off-guard by sensory overload when and if the brain and mind get triggered.

Remind yourself that CPTSD is a normal response related to traumatic events you were powerless to control. CPTSD is not your fault.

psst. hey. it wasn't the trauma that made you stronger, kinder, and more empathetic.

its how you handled it.

"After having my baby, I developed compartment syndrome. Dr. Jennings was able to save my hand and arm. When I was told I needed to see a hand therapist, I asked him where I should go and he suggested Encore Rehabilitation-Dothan to visit Mary. In the past 11 weeks, Mary has helped me gain some if not most of my strength, range of motion, and function. I have been able to see a big difference in my healing process. Mary is amazing at what she does! I honestly could not imagine going anywhere else!"

Post from Subject for her and her husband's anniversary Caption: 11 years ago we said "I do". Jason, we have had so many ups & downs, bumps in the road and we almost lost me. There is no one else in life I would rather do it with than you. Year 11 seems to have been the most exciting/interesting year yet. We went from a family of 3 to a family of 4. You have supported me through all of my craziness, doctors appointments, emotional melt downs and so much more. We have been together for 18 years and we still learn new things about each other daily. You are the hardest working man I know and you still find ways to be involved with your family and community. Stella and Ruby James are so lucky to have you as a daddy and they both get so excited to see you. I hope they find men that are just like you to marry one day because you set the standard pretty high. I love you. Happy anniversary j-baby☺

Photos of Subject's healing journey within the comment section Subject discusses the incident Caption: 6mths ago.... 6mths ago my life forever changed. But I have learned that this only is a part of my story. I woke up laying in an icu bed intubated and you could not tell that it was me laying in the bed. I went in to have a baby... and I came out looking like this with scars all over me. I knew from the start that this was NOT going to get me(although I was in a dark place for a long while). I am learning to adjust, find the beauty in the scars, become more and more thankful for the little things in life, and to find myself. No one knows the paths the lord leads you until that road comes up and it makes a sharp curve. Boy was this curve sharp, bumpy, boggy, and of so rough... but through the dark path there is light. I am no where near □ but I am at least 85. I still talk with my therapist every other week and doctor appointment have slowed down tremendously. I want to say THANK YOU to all of those who pray, have prayed, continue to pray, and who have helped. We had meals, baby sitters, mommy sitters, friends who went school supply shopping for me, friends who have helped in special ways, friends who sent me sweet messages and gifts and friends who have listened to me whine and cry. Even the friends who push me through my workouts. There is no way I could ever repay any of you. So here's to MY 1/2 birthday of being reborn and into a new person. 2020 was nothing (who am I kidding) but I can't wait to see what 2021 holds. #lordmakemenew #blessings #compartmentsyndrome #change #ihadababy #friendship #newbeginnings #love #rubyjames #thisisme #aspiretoinspire #loveyourself #behindthescars #scarstellstories #thisismystory #alittlethingcalledlife #iamthey #scars #iamthankforthesescars @megdfipo I completely agree!!! Nursing is hard , but the hardest thing to me is watching other nurses not care about their patients... I deal with it every single day! It either makes you strive to be better or makes you feel so defeated that you want to give up... The state board exam for nursing and nursing school should be so hard that not just anyone can pass.. the problem is people go to work and get a check.. they don't go to work to take care of the patient and certainly don't have the patients best interest at heart... it's sad and I'm so sorry that you went through this during one of the most joyous times in your life!!!

megdfipo @momoforax thank you. This is thankfully DID NOT HAPPEN IN L&D... other than a specialized doctor who put the iv in my alert hand. My nurse saved my life. ❤️

TRAUMA

A girl who has lived through trauma has lived through a situation where her body, her mind, her self was not her own. Where she felt disjointed, ripped from her self, safety, and sanity. It was a moment, an experience, a something where her trust was smashed, her worth was gone and all there was was pain.

Subject shared about struggling with her scars Caption: Struggling this week so far... added a new scar to my story... I'm so over the ugly.... laying in bed crying. In comes Stella. Stella: Mommy what's wrong? Me: I'm over the scars, the pain, and being sick. Stella: it's ok mommy. The scars did not change you they tell your story. You are still my beautiful mommy no matter what any one says. ☹️How do you not continue to cry when your 8year old sees the beauty in them. This new one on my back is gonna leave me with another ugly scar that I have to live with. My sweet innocent child sees the beauty and I see the ugly. How do I over come that. The best thing is I am teaching her to love herself no matter the situation. It's so hard. I can cry in the dark but she will always hear. Forever my best friend she will be. #scars #mystory #scarssuck

Post from Subject about her trauma indicating it was nine months since the incident Caption: Nine months... has it been 9 months already?! 9 months ago my world turned upside down. I know most of you are probably tired of hearing me whine, cry, gripe, and complain. To be honest that's ok. Putting myself out there is my therapy. I hope that I can speak for that person who does not know how to do it for themselves or for the person hiding their pain. I have always been an open book. Ask me anything and I am not afraid to tell you. Who knew that 9months ago I almost never got to see the face of my children, husband, family or friends ever again. I got that second chance. I got to renew myself and be a better person. I still live in fear that I will experience the pain again and that something is just waiting around the corner to take me away. I told God that morning that I was not ready to go and leave my babies behind and he agreed. I still have that job to fulfill. I have not figured it out yet, but if it's making a public post about my journey so be it. Every day is still a Struggle. I have moments of weakness, defeat, sadness, anger, and happiness. It's not everyday someone gets that second chance. Last week I was alone... I was scared but I survived I faced a fear of being stuck with needles again and undergoing surgery. Being a person with cptsd is not easy. I have constant struggles of fear and nightmares. Everyday is a new day. Some days good some days bad and most days I hide the pain away. I have to learn to get out of my head. The smallest things send me in to panic attacks and I completely loose it and become a totally different person. If you ever get to witness it I am going ahead an apologizing for it. I'm not the nicest person and I say some pretty ugly things followed with a complete breakdown. Let's be honest what mom doesn't ☹️. I am trying to be better, trying to count or distract myself. I don't like meds so I have found that releasing my aggression in the gym is the best way for me to help over come my issues. My days are slowly getting better and I know they will be better in time. In the meantime bare with me, let me vent/breathe, and let me be. I love each of you and I am always forever thankful for the love, prayers, and happiness

Post from Subject about her scars from the incident Caption: Learning this daily... 13 days until my next surgery... I love when I tell my story of "I had a baby" and the looks on peoples faces or the comments that are made... I'm a survivor of Sepsis, acute compartment syndrome (estimated to be 7.3 per 100,000 in males and 0.7 per 100,000 in females, with the majority of cases occurring after trauma). a survivor of DIC... (The prognosis for those with DIC, regardless of cause, is often grim: between 20% and 50% of patients will die. Post from Subject for Mother's day Caption: Two little special ladies who made me a momma. I am so blessed to have them. They test my patience at times, i loose my cool, i yell, cry, hug, and even say things I regret but boy oh boy do I love these two more than life itself. Stella was my 4lb11oz 35 week baby and Ruby was my 6lb3oz 38 week baby. Both of my children wanted to test how strong I was. Stella almost gave me a stroke, kidney failure, and preeclampsia. Ruby actually broke my water, and well developed sepsis and a whole lot more. Boy did I show them. I don't know who at times is more stubborn; me, my hot headed Italian, or the firecracker. Lord help me. ☹️ I would not change either of them (except the tween attitude). Mommy loves you both so very much. #stellagrey #rubyjames #adventuresofrubyandstella #mothersday

Post from Subject about being yourself Caption: Beauty begins the moment you try to be yourself. Each day is a new day. I face new obstacles, meet new people, overcome the darkness that tries to take my light and I keep pushing to be a better person. I have many flaws, I have the mouth of a sailor at times, I make inappropriate comments ☹️ (I grew up with boys) i am far from the perfect mom and wife, and I guess what that's what makes me "ME". Learn to love yourself and be YOU. Take that selfie if it makes you feel better, make that post you want, share your story, and don't care about what anyone else thinks. I have many days I am not myself. I went from loving myself to hating myself over night. I had days of regret, anger, and sadness. I have learned to tell myself I DID NOT DO THIS TO MY BODY... I DID NOT DO THIS TO MY MIND. I DID NOT MAKE THESE SCARS. But I CAN OVERCOME THE DARKNESS. Yes, I am still bitter, angry, and sad. I will have a BIG story to tell Ruby one day. She has started to rub her hands along my scars and then on her arm. One day she will know (that will be a hard day) but until then I am going to continue to be me! I'm gonna embrace the "ugly". Because... BEAUTY BEGINS THE MOMENT YOU BEGIN TO BE YOURSELF!

Religious post from Subject Caption: I don't have much to ask for this year because I am so blessed with the things I have already but, I would like to ask for extra prayers for some very near and dear friends. I have friends who's children are fighting nasty sickness' which require round the clock Medical care, friends who are fighting their battle with cancer, friends who are watching their new born baby from a nicu bed, friends who are struggling with inner demons, friends and family who have lost loved ones, and friends who just need that extra hug. I ask each of you to please pray. Pray for their comfort, healing, and peace. Although we all have our own problems weather we choose to share or choose to hide we all need a little encouragement, love, and prayer. So this Christmas I ask for you my prayer warriors who ever so helped and prayed for me in my time of need to pray for them. "I have seen their ways, but I will heal them. I will guide them and reward them with comfort. And for those who mourn, I will create reason for praise: utter prosperity to those far and near, and I will heal them, says the Lord." — Isaiah 57:18-19

Meme shared by Subject. Within the caption Subject discusses, "Dealing with depression, anxiety, and ptsd for the last two years..." Caption: Dealing with depression, anxiety, and ptsd for the last two years has been the hardest thing. In the last 9 months I have noticed that I DONT NEED THE MEDICATION. I need the gym. I am Not where I used to be with lifting but I am there doing it. I'm mentally stronger, physically better, I no longer have insomnia, and I over all feel better. I'm teaching my girls better habits and hoping to inspire others. I have learned that movement is the BEST MEDICINE. If you are looking for someone to help you come workout with me. Come to one of the classes. Or get outside and MOVE. @anytimefitness_ozarkal has classes. There is silver strength (silver sneakers) meets at 9:45 on Tuesday and Thursday and Bootcamp with Hannah meets at 11am, 4pm, and 5pm on Tuesday and Thursday, and Legs with Hannah on Mondays at 4pm. If you want to have some fun maybe dance a little, do some yoga or fly in the air Paula N Terry Teeter is at @soflybungeefitness downtown ozark. I think there is a group that runs the Downtown area, there is a Cross fit class that meets early in the am at anytime fitness I'm Sure Todd Ledford can help you out with more info and there is one downtown across from piggly wiggly. We have 3 gyms in town. Anytime fitness, pump fitness Allison Wise (across from churches chicken), and Ozark Fitness (behind the Pd). Each place has their own things and people to help you. If you are looking for someone to help motivate you, keep you accountable I'm your girl. You can usually find me at anytime. If I'm not there Heidi Faulk or Hannah will be glad to help. Keep moving, keep going, don't give up! REMEMBER YOU ARE BEAUTIFUL AND YOU ARE STRONG! You are not out of shape you are tired. #anytimefitness #motivation #motivate #aspiretoinspire #workout

Subject shares meme about "depression, anxiety, and panic attacks..." Within the caption indicates she "hates the month of June..." Caption: It SUCKS! I hate every aspect of it. I hate the month of June still 4 years later I can't sleep, I can't breathe, my heart is beating out of my chest and I just want to run away from it all. Panic attacks are not fair to your family or friends. They are triggers that just come on without any notice and having the feeling of sadness without any cause. Stella still holds my hand and lays on top of me to calm me down. I am forever thankful that she is my person when I have these moments. Remember to be nice to others because you never know what is going on inside of them. #panicattack #depressionawareness #depressionandanxiety #deepbreathing

Post about self care

Megan DiFilippo's Post

Megan DiFilippo

February 7

Okay... here's the question of the day...

Self care.

How do you define self-care. We all have things we like to do to make ourselves feel better. If it's laying in a tanning bed getting our nails done, getting our hair done, making changes to our bodies, fixing the imperfections that we don't like that other people don't see. Or could it be shopping or working out. It might just be even opening your Bible and or reading a devotion or endlessly scrolling, Facebook or Instagram or random reels and TikTok. Just so we can zone out and block out the things of life. What is your definition of self-care I don't think there is a right or wrong answer to it. I feel like at the end of the day. It's whatever makes you feel better. I personally enjoy getting my nails done every 2 to 3 weeks. I work hard to be able to do that, I enjoy my hour to three hour gym sessions with or without my kids, preferably without the kids a little less stressful. I like getting my hair, done window, shopping and browsing Walmart sales section and finding cute outfits and deals. I also have a guilty pleasure of motivational quotes and Bible verses they help me get through the day. So what's your self-care....lips, nails hair, etc. let's hear it.

remember we are all beautiful and allowed to take care of ourselves

This is my definition of self-care.

I like to light my candle and watch a movie on Sunday evening after all my chores are done or give myself a facial, lying in my hammock reading a magazine on a nice day, summer time it's in my pool enjoying a cocktail, yoga on Tuesday nights, taking a walk in our long leaf pine with our dog just being with nature. Anything that calms my soul...

As a mother of a small toddler, it doesn't happen often but I enjoy when I can get time to do my entire moisturizing routine, properly! I do enjoy my hair and nails done professionally. It makes me smile and feel better. Buying a new shirt occasionally. Just driving around with the music up by myself in the car is great too.

April Rogers can I ask you about pedicures? I have been wanting to have one as I have never got them done. Will they do it if you have an ingrown toenail? I have one nail that is doing that and it doesn't look nice.

Subject's Instagram story shared on 05/28/2025.

If birth months were personality traits:

@poetstribе

August – The Confident Chaos

You walk in like the main character, and you are. You're loud, loving, dramatic, and somehow always end up in charge, even if you didn't mean to be. You're a little overwhelming, very unforgettable, and weirdly good at inspiring people without even realizing it.

August – Amber Dust

You walk into a room and shift
the energy without a word.
You carry confidence like it's woven into your skin, and your warmth pulls people in.
Like Amber Dust, you're golden presence with a grounded glow.

If birth months were colors

@poetstribе

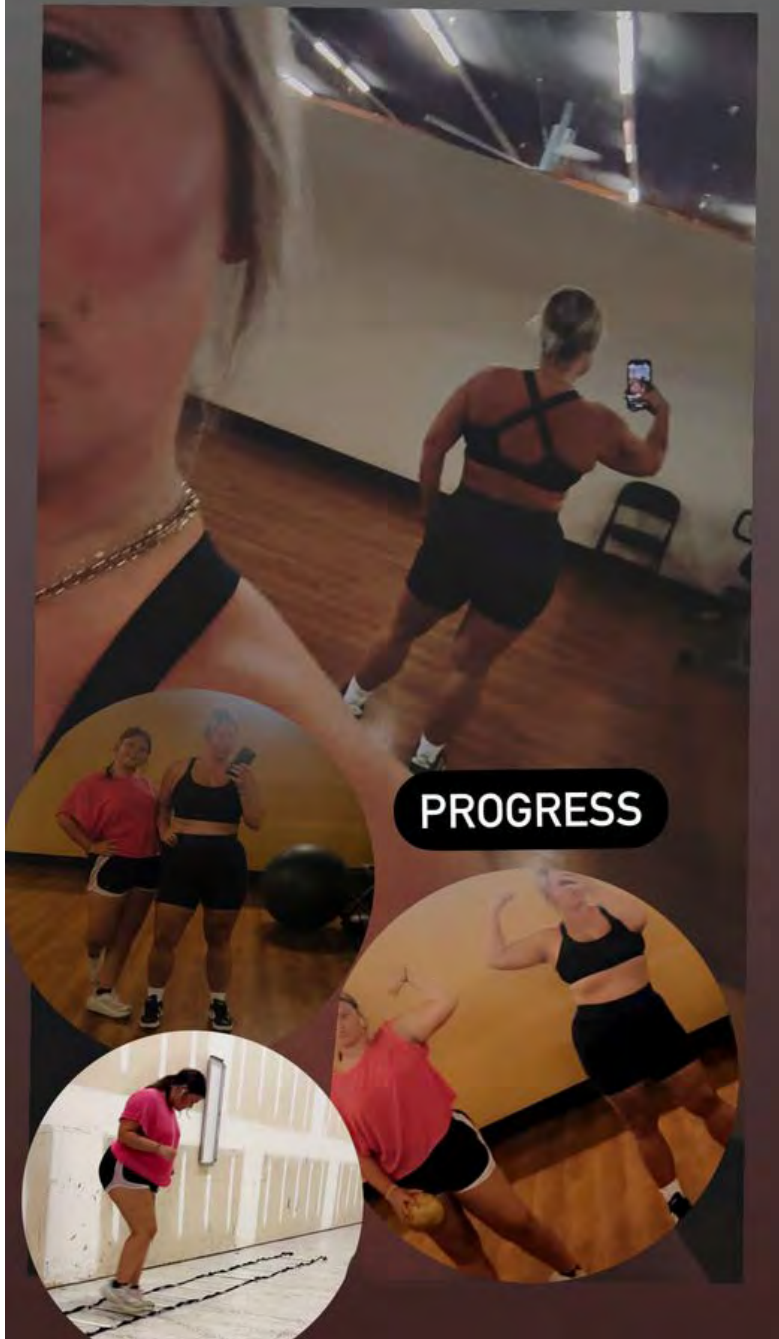

August:

You make people believe in themselves just by being around you. You celebrate others without jealousy. Your loyalty runs deep-you don't just show up, you stay.

If birth months were green flags

@wordporm

I love to pop out occasionally but being home & ugly in peace is top tier.

imagine bullying me in high school only to realize i turned out
hotter AND happier
than you <3
